

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A facsimile apparatus is provided with boxes corresponding to an F-code which is received by facsimile transmission procedures, executes a center-
5 machine application using the corresponding boxes based on sub-address information when receiving image information, the apparatus comprising. In the apparatus, an F-code input requesting portion requests a user to input an F-code when the user operates the apparatus for 10 performing transmission, and a control portion searches for the box for which an F-code is registered, the value of which F-code agrees with the value of the F-code input by the user, and, only when finding the box, agrees to accept the transmission operation performed by 15 the user, and registers, in document managing information for managing the transmission job performed by the transmission operation, identification information for the box as authentication information.

DISCLOSED UNDER E.O. 14176